Professional documentation of your valuables, should the worst happen.

Do you have a detailed record of your valuable contents?

We have our insurance in place for one purpose. To replace our belongings after theft, loss or damage.

But when it comes to making a claim, can you meet your insurance company's requirements?

Insurance companies require proof of ownership and value before they will agree to settle a claim. It is therefore important to have a comprehensive record of your household and personal property stored securely away from your home.

PhotoSecure is the answer

Endorsed by all leading insurance companies, PhotoSecure and their team of fully qualified Insurance Photographers will...

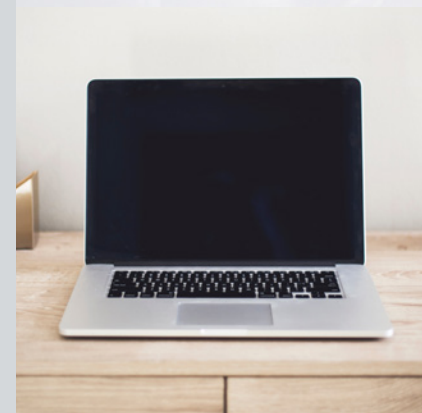

- Professionally photograph your valuable contents within your home or business
- Record all serial numbers and key identification details of each item photographed
- Photograph any receipts and valuation certificates
- Video scan the main rooms of your home
- Securely store all information in a maximum security vault
- Immediately retrieve your file on request and send the relevant information to you or your insurance company

Accurate records, accurate claims

For the past 20 years PhotoSecure has helped clients throughout New Zealand receive a prompt, accurate, stress free claims settlement.

"PhotoSecure really helped our insurance claim following the Christchurch earthquakes. The images and video scan they provided were fantastic and we received a very quick settlement as a result. We were so relieved to have had PhotoSecure to call on at such a stressful time"

Mr and Mrs Darryl and Martine Swann
